

Teacher's Day Celebration by Grade-9

By Priyanka Chhetri , Journalism Club - Grade 9

On July 25, we celebrated the Teacher's Day also known as "Gurupurnima". Every year we have been celebrating in respect of all the teachers and this year grade 9 were assigned to organize the Teacher's Day. We were all excited to do something for the teachers but were too busy as we were having our exams. But keeping the exams aside we all thought of doing something. Not everyone but few of us came in the morning to decorate and organize things in the auditorium.

We reached school by 7:30 am. We were all excited but didn't notice that there was some hard work which was to be done really soon. We had heard that the program was going to be held in the Cafeteria. Some of us started blowing balloons, some were rearranging the chairs and tables and some were practicing their songs. We enjoyed working as we love working where there is music. Shriya and Anantaa started off with the arranging of chairs and tables and Megha and I were busy blowing balloons. We finished off with the balloons and the furniture and started decorating the wall as it looked very dull. We started with a heart and it turned out to be nice after all as we had Leesa and Shriya's sister, Priya helping us by our sides. As we were finished we were told that the program was shifted to the auditorium. We were really mad but the anger cooled off as we had many other things in our minds such as having loads of fun.

We rushed to the auditorium and the boys that are Abhishek, Pasang, Dinip, Karan, Saurya and Suyog carried the chairs to the auditorium. As we reached there, we were shocked and terrified to look at such a scene as we didn't know that the hall would be in such a mess. The stage was the worst. It was so dusty but we had a solution for it. We started sweeping and wiping the floor and in a while it was good as new. We arranged the chairs in the auditorium and started getting ready for the program. As we were penning for our friends some vans arrived and we were happy to see that finally more help had arrived. We were exhausted by the time the program started but we didn't give up. The boys were busy rehearsing and as for the girls they were dressing the kids up for their dance, and as for me I was doing their makeup.

The program finally started with a welcome dance followed by another dance and then a song. Then there was some break dance and again another song. After some other songs and dances there was the big bang in the show. There was Karan and Anubhav with their tunes on their guitar which woke everyone up and it was followed by Sashi who played the drums with his heart out which reached through the teacher's souls. Actually, we know that this program rocked most teachers' day although it was boring for some other. The program ended with a gift giving ceremony to the Principal, Mr. Medin Lamichane and the Vice-Principal, Mr. Himlal Ghimire on the behalf of the entire teachers and the school.

We were really happy as we knew that our effort finally paid off and it was a proof to everyone in the entire school that even grade 9 (the naughtiest grade of all time) can do something good and beneficial. We were very happy to serve our teachers and on the behalf of grade 9 I would like to thank our teachers for what they have been doing for us since the time we have been their students and would serve them gracefully in future.
